Fundraising bettering living conditions

Children involved with Scripture Union Victoria spent last week at Camp Coolamatong and were busy fundraising to provide clean water supply for people living in Cambodia.

Charlene Delos Santos, of Scripture Union Victoria, said each bottle of water they sold in the Nicholson Street Mall would provide clean water for one month for a village in Cambodia.

Children from around Victoria attended the camp, which stems from a program ran through schools.

"I think they like doing things to make a difference and making a contribution," Charlene said of the students.
